Monday, October 24, 2011 from 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM

Minnesota Landscape Arboretum

The Presencing process is a journey that connects us more deeply both to what wants to emerge in the world and to our emerging, higher self. An international network has developed to apply the Presencing approach in organizational and social change.

Goal for the forum: Strengthen the Minnesota hub of people practicing awareness-based collective change methods in pioneering a more sustainable, inclusive, and aware society.

Intended outcomes:

1. Deeper understanding of the Presencing process and how it applies personally, in work, and community.
2. Discovering ways life is calling you to bring this process back to your community.
3. Knowing ways the Presencing network that is beginning to form in Minnesota and internationally can support your application of awareness-based collective change, and how you can contribute to these emerging networks.
